Tarleton State University invites nominations and applications for the position of Dean of the Dr. Sam Pack College of Business. The Dean serves as the academic officer responsible for executive management of the college and its full range of programs and initiatives; exercises leadership responsibility in advising the college regarding administrative, curriculum and budgetary matters; and provides a vision that contributes to achieving the goals of the institutional strategic plan Tarleton Forward 2030. The ideal candidate will be an experienced, collegial, visionary, and entrepreneurial leader who thinks creatively about the challenges of the changing demographics in higher education. The position reports to the Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs.

The Dr. Sam Pack College of Business is newly accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB). With a budget of almost $12 million, the college offers 13 baccalaureate and 7 master's degrees to over 3,300 students across departments of Accounting, Finance and Economics; Management; and Marketing and Computer Information Systems. The college serves the Tarleton State campuses in Stephenville, Fort Worth, Waco, and online.

INSTITUTIONAL PROFILE

Tarleton State University is an energetic, comprehensive Carnegie R2 Doctoral University: High Research Activity, with the elective Community Engagement classification, and a member of the Association of Public and Land-grant Universities (APLU). The university has experienced record enrollment increases in each of the last five years. With the success of its dual-enrollment program Tarleton Today, it saw another all-time high enrollment in Fall 2024 at nearly 18,000 students, up 26 percent from 2019. These enrollment surges are proof that Tarleton State is quickly becoming one of the country's fastest growing comprehensive public universities in enrollment, research and national prominence.

The university offers 82 bachelor's, 31 master's, and three doctoral degree options, with 7 additional research and health professional doctorates proposed for fall 2025–2027. For their majors, students choose from eight colleges — Agriculture and Natural Sciences; Business; Education; Mayfield College of Engineering; Health Sciences; Liberal and Fine Arts; Science and Mathematics; and Leadership and Military Studies.

Tarleton State University is a proud member of the Texas A&M University System, and serves students on the main campus in Stephenville, its growing Fort Worth campus, in Waco, on the A&M RELLIS campus in College Station and online.

NCAA Division I athletic membership increases national recognition for student-athletes and academic programs, positioning Tarleton State as a frontrunner for anyone seeking a university education. Among numerous milestones, its storied rodeo program boasts 39 National Championship titles and counting, making it a top pick for many cowgirls and cowboys.

INSTITUTIONAL HISTORY

Tarleton State University was founded in 1899 by John Tarleton, a rancher and entrepreneur, who bequeathed his life savings to create an institution of higher education for students of modest means. His commitment to access, opportunity, and affordability is the lifeblood of the university.

In 1917, Tarleton State became a founding member of The Texas A&M University System, one of the largest systems of higher education in the United States.

The Texas A&M System, through a statewide network of 11 universities, a comprehensive Health Science Center, eight state agencies, Texas A&M-Fort Worth and Texas A&M-RELLIS, educates more than 157,000 students annually and makes more than 21 million additional educational contacts through service and outreach programs. System-wide research and development expenditures exceed $1.5 billion a year and are a driving force in the state's economy.

STEPHENVILLE, TEXAS

The Tarleton State main campus sits in the center of Stephenville and enriches the lives of students with a traditional college experience, offering more than a dozen on-campus living options, recreation center, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, study areas, and a variety of student organizations that meet on campus. Stephenville is located at the intersection of US-281, US-67 and US-377, 25 miles south of IH-20, and 70 miles southwest of the Dallas / Fort Worth Metroplex. Stephenville is the retail center for a trade area population of approximately 80,000 Texans.

Agriculture is the leading industry, with Erath County in the top 10% in overall agriculture production and ranking No. 2 in milk production in the State of Texas. In addition to farmers and ranchers, Fortune 500 companies provide a strong manufacturing diversity to the economy. Stephenville serves as a regional medical and retail center for the area with many family-owned businesses thriving as they draw from a strong, diverse workforce, educational opportunities and family-oriented atmosphere.

As the 'Cowboy Capital of the World', Stephenville is uniquely home to more professional rodeo cowboys and cowgirls than any other place in the world. And the equine industry continues to grow throughout the surrounding County. The 'City of Champions' designation reflects the commitment as a community to excellence in youth and civic organizations. The community strongly believes that investing in their youth is a wise and worthwhile endeavor. Families seeking a positive place to raise kids will find an excellent school system, civic organizations dedicated to youth programs, numerous sports leagues, and family fun events at parks, museums, and churches throughout the year.

Stephenville is a special place that reflects pride in the community's rich heritage and commitment to the future. Spend a little time and you will see why Stephenville has been listed as one of 'The 100 Best Small Towns in America!' Located 100 miles from the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area, several major manufacturing companies plus small businesses, boutiques, and many more offer ample job opportunities.

LEADERSHIP

PRESIDENT JAMES HURLEY

Dr. James Hurley was unanimously appointed the 16th President of Tarleton State University in August 2019 by The Texas A&M System Board of Regents. Since his arrival, Tarleton State has become one of the country's fastest growing comprehensive public universities with an impressive 34% increase in enrollment growth. The university has set new records in student success, fundraising, research expenditures, state support and national prominence.

Under Dr. Hurley's leadership, the university created and implemented Tarleton Forward 2030: Our Future-Focused Strategic Plan, a blueprint for becoming the premier comprehensive public university in the nation. During his time, Tarleton State has elevated its profile in academics, research, enrollment, retention rates, graduation rates, fundraising, athletics and regional engagement. Money magazine named Tarleton State one of the "Best Colleges in America" for 2024.

His ability to maximize revenue and resource generation efforts have served as a force-multiplier for the university's momentum. This includes a 43.6% increase in state appropriations over the last two legislative bienniums, increased formula funding from record enrollment growth, innovative student funding models, accelerated degree completion, improved operational efficiency, and record fundraising. Dr. Hurley has launched the largest comprehensive fundraising campaign in Tarleton State's history titled "Always, Texan," setting a goal of raising $250 million by 2030. Previously, the university shattered a $100 million goal in 2022, two years ahead of schedule, raising nearly $150 million to commemorate its 125th anniversary.

Dr. Hurley's efforts to advance research and innovation endeavors have increased research expenditures by 67%, helping earn Tarleton State the elevated designation of Doctoral Universities: High Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. This puts the university among only 133 across the country designated as high research institutions. He established and secured funding to launch multiple major research initiatives, including the President's Excellence in Research Scholars (PERS) and the Institute for Rural Economic Development and Research. Tarleton State now operates as an EDA University Center, the only one in the region and one of just 73 nationwide. To bring new collaboration and more research dollars to the state, a state-of-the-art Research and Economic Development Building was recently opened in 2024.

With impressive growth in the student population, the university has continued to build and enhance its infrastructure under Dr. Hurley. At the start of 2024, Tarleton State broke ground on an $80 million Health Professions Building to help meet the need for healthcare professionals. Additionally, a new residence hall and an expansion of the Dick Smith Library to add a 24/7 space for students are in the works. A $110 million Event Center is also under construction, with the venue set to host NCAA Division I basketball and provide room for academic convocations, symposiums, conferences and conventions. In total, Tarleton State has over $500 million in active construction and design.

In 2024, Dr. Hurley received the prestigious United States Congressional Patriot Award from Congressman Pat Fallon for his positive contributions to society through higher educational leadership. In 2023, Fort Worth, Inc. Magazine honored him as one of the 400 most influential North Texans. In 2022, the North Texas Commission honored him with its distinguished Education Leadership Award, recognizing his lasting impact on the region.

An invitation in 2022 to join the impactful Association of Public & Land-grant Universities reflects Dr. Hurley's commitment to groundbreaking discovery, educational access and student success. APLU membership underscores Tarleton State's place among the top academic institutions in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

A nationally recognized innovator and academic leader, Dr. Hurley has a lifetime of service as Instructor, Professor, Dean and Vice President. Prior to Tarleton State, he served as President of Tusculum University. Under his leadership, TU added its University Health Center, College of Health Sciences and Niswonger College of Optometry.

He holds a doctorate from Morehead State University, a master's degree from Indiana University and a bachelor's degree from the University of Pikeville. He completed the Institute for Presidential Leadership at Harvard University and received a certificate of higher education management from Vanderbilt University.

PROVOST DIANE STEARNS

Dr. Diane Stearns joined Tarleton State as Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs in June 2022. She served as Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Northern Arizona University (NAU in Flagstaff from 2019 to 2021. Dr. Stearns joined the NAU faculty in 1997 as chemistry Assistant Professor, working her way up to Associate Vice President for Research and later to Provost. She played leadership roles in NAU's state and federally funded initiatives to increase biomedical, clinical and behavioral research across the institution..

She is a graduate of Carleton College in Northfield, Min., where she majored in chemistry. She holds a PhD in inorganic chemistry from the University of California, Berkeley.

STRATEGIC PLAN

Tarleton State finalized its new 10-year road map — Tarleton Forward 2030: Our Future-Focused Strategic Plan — in spring 2021, aligning with the university's reaffirmation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC).

Tarleton Forward 2030 declares the university's resolve to give all students the knowledge, skills, and confidence they need to lead, and to stand beside them from the moment they apply.

- Goal I: Student Opportunity & Success
- Goal II: Academic Distinction
- Goal III: Global, Community & First Gen Initiatives
- Goal IV: Research, Innovation, & Economic Impact
- Goal V: Institutional Prominence

Dr. Sam Pack is the owner and operator of six Five Star dealerships (Pack Automotive Group) in the Dallas-Fort Worth market. In addition to his North Central Texas dealerships, Pack co-owns six more in Tulsa. In 2018 he cofounded Triton Automotive Group, a collection of like-minded dealers (16 shareholders, representing 200 dealerships). His business and community leadership earned him the national 1988 TIME Dealer of the Year tribute, one of the auto industry's most coveted honors. Only one other Texas dealer has received this award, and none since Pack.

The Texas Automobile Dealers Association in 2005 recognized him as an industry Legend — only the second person in the association's 93-year history so named. And he was one of five dealers inducted into Ford's inaugural Top Volume Dealers Hall of Fame in 2016.

Pack supports more than 300 nonprofits, service organizations and community events through Sam Pack Cares, the charitable arm of Pack Automotive. In 2003 he received the Ford Motor Company Salute to Dealers Award, presented by Edsel Ford II, for his commitment to improve communities and the lives of individuals in them.

He has given liberally to Tarleton State, too, donating to the university's food pantry, the President's Circle and the Dr. James and Kindall Hurley Scholarship Endowment. Then there is the Tarleton State University Pack Automotive Group Intern Program, providing Texans with learning opportunities that inspire career success.
